

I have a "remote control carbon monoxide alarm" - a carbon monoxide alarm that states that you can use your TV remote control to test or silence or test this alarm - that will not operate. What should I do?

If your "remote control carbon monoxide alarm" does not respond to your TV remote control, there may be something obstructing the alarm from your remote's signal. You may be standing too far away, at a bad angle, or perhaps your remote control is not compatible. Contact the manufacturer for additional troubleshooting suggestions.
