

What is the expected carbon monoxide alarm battery life?

Actual carbon monoxide alarm battery life depends on the specific carbon monoxide detection device and the environment in which it is installed. Batteries specified in the user's manual are the only acceptable replacement batteries. Regardless of the manufacturer's suggested carbon monoxide alarm battery life, you MUST replace the battery immediately if the unit starts "chirping" to signal the end of its battery life.